

I'm proud of the general improvements that have made this site more responsive and have improved usability on all devices. With more time, I would add more details and more of a "form" feel to the contact form. With feedback, I have updated font colors and headings to improve overall visibility in headers and footer sections. For this site, I've used and customized the Bootstrap library to keep the overall color scheme of the original site, and have customized the framework to add font stylings, create cards, custom forms, and buttons. An issue I experienced with this project along the way was being able to get proper WCAG-compliant visibility for some sections that had text overlay.
